

Mimiko tasks Christians on Nigeria's survival

Ondo State Governor, Dr Olusegun Mimiko on Wednesday tasked Christians to brace up for the challenges of enthroning good leadership for the country in the next year's general election.

According to the Governor, the corporate survival of Nigeria depends on the resolve of all Nigerians including Christians to be active participants in the electoral process insisting that this was the only way to guarantee the emergence of genuine leadership that would impact positively on the lives of the people.

Dr Mimiko, who stated this in his office while granting audience to the General Evangelist of the Christ Apostolic Church (C.A.C) Worldwide, Prophet Samuel Abiara, maintained that if the people failed to show genuine interest and commitment to the nation's democratic process, the nation would not achieve any tangible development.

Governor Mimiko however solicited the support of all Nigerians irrespective of their religious affiliations for the sustainability of the nation's democracy, adding that their prayers and cooperation would also go a long way in sustaining the unity and peace of the country.

He was generous in his appreciation for the men and women of God for their continuous prayers for the Leadership of the country and urged them not to relent in their prayers for the nation at all time saying that the prayers of the righteous would always take us to our predestined position among the comity of nations.

Earlier in his speech, the General Evangelist of the C.A.C worldwide, Prophet Samuel Abiara said his visit to the state was on the invitation of the state chapters of the Christian Association of Nigeria (CAN) and the Pentecostal Fellowship of Nigeria (PFN) to pray for the peace and stability of the country and the state ahead of the next year general elections.

The Cleric, however, congratulated the governor on his laudable achievements in office within a short while saying that he has become a beacon of hope for the toiling Nigerians given his giant strides in the provision of amenities for the people. He equally urged Governor Mimiko to sustain his relationship with God.

--

Kolawole Olabisi,
Chief Press Secretary to the Governor of Ondo State, Governor's Office. Akure, Ondo State